PRI Selected as 2006 SBA Small Business of the Year

San Diego, CA- The U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) announced today that PRI, Project Resources, Inc. was selected as the 2006 Minority Small Business of the Year. Shari Walden, CEO of PRI, received top honors for her business leadership and the firm's unwavering commitment to the SBA small business program. This award is given annually to firms who have demonstrated superior business achievement.

Ms. Walden stated, "We are very pleased with the award from the SBA and look forward to continuing our growth as a provider of critical services for the federal government. This award is the result of PRI's past performance on time-critical projects, particularly on recent contracts from FEMA and the USACE to support Gulf Coast Hurricane Katrina reconstruction efforts."

PRI is gaining recognition as a premier provider of critical government services worldwide using a combination of proven PRI project management approaches and work management technology. Our people have a unique "can do attitude" and the experience required to work in contingency operations.
